During the Summit, Samdech Techo Prime Minister made substantive contributions. The key points of his interventions can be quoted as follows:

First: I would like to highly appreciate the Kingdom of Thailand for initiating the ACMECS Master Plan 2019-2023, aiming to reform the ACMECS Cooperation structure, and to fully utilize ACMECS's potential. At the same time, Cambodia would also agree in principle on the initiative of Thailand to establish ACMECS Fund and ACMECS Infrastructure Fund and Trust. For further works, I would request our technical officials to deliberate and study more on the mechanism, structure, feasibility and Terms of References of these Funds.

Second: the private sector has played a significant role in accelerating development. We, therefore, have to encourage the Public Private Partnership, which is the key driving force of economic growth, and continue to provide priority in improving business climate, especially through the development of transport infrastructure, logistics, trade facilitation and Special Economic Zones. Furthermore, with regard to the remaining projects that have not been financed, we should encourage the private sector to participate, especially through the Public Private Partnership, so that those priority projects can be completed on time. I would also congratulate the success of ACMECS CEO Forum, which was held yesterday, entitled "Connecting our Future: Enhancing ACMECS Cooperation and Integration," aiming to promote connectivity, trade and investment, as well as strengthening financial cooperation.

Third: strengthening the cooperation on Trade, Investment and Industry among ACMECS members in the context of the Global and Regional Value Chains is the task to be further expedited, so that we can benefit from outflow of modern technology and changes in economic structure of some countries in the region, from a labor-intensive to capital-intensive economy. At the same time, we have to regularly adapt ourselves with new conditions and maintain an open and flexible attitude toward the positive changes, particularly in the context of the arrival of the fourth Industrial Evolution and the change of technology in financial services in order to ensure that our production capacity remains competitive.

Fourth: maintaining regional and sub-regional security, peace and stability still remains the integral part of successes and economic development, both at the national, sub-regional and regional levels. In this regard, there is a need for us to strengthen mutual trust, based on the peaceful resolution for dispute settlement mechanism, mutual dialogue and consultation in accordance with international law and the spirit of good collaboration.

Fifth: I would like to express my full support for the joint vision of ACMECS development, especially I would support the Bangkok Declaration of the 8th ACMECS Summit and the ACMECS Master Plan 2019-2013.

At the conclusion, the Leaders adopted the Bangkok Declaration and ACMECS Master Plan.

Cambodia will redouble its efforts in focusing on ACMECS' priority direction by reducing the development gap and enhancing socio-economic development while protecting our environment to strengthen welfare of our citizens for the benefit of ACMECS countries.

Cambodia will ensure the effective implementation of the Bangkok Declaration and particularly the three pillars of ACMECS Mater Plan 2019-2023 while encouraging and finalizing the implementation of Hanoi Declaration, previous Declarations as well as other projects and initiatives being implemented both at either bilateral or multilateral levels.
